

Trannabis: Healing for All Bodies aims to Heal from Within During Month of NYC World Pride on June 22nd, 2019

NEW YORK ? May 30, 2019 /Canna Newswire/ ?] June marks a month of celebration in New York, as the city ushers in the sixth edition of WorldPride. The timing is especially powerful because 2019 marks the 50th anniversary of the historic Stonewall uprising, the precursor to the contemporary pride parade. The city will be hosting diverse events in support of the different ways pride events, which is why revellers will be able to find over 50 plus different official and partner events offered during WorldPride NYC / Stonewall50.

Cannapreneur and cannivist, Jamie Wollberg, Founder of Blunt Broz, has dedicated himself to bringing the LGBTQAI+ and cannabis communities together, not only to educate the LGBTQAI+ community on the healing properties of cannabis but educating the cannabis community on how they can support the much-needed healing of the LGBTQAI+ community at Trannabis: Healing For All Bodies, a private pre-World Pride event in Brooklyn slated for June 22nd beginning at noon for those 21 and up.

According to Wollberg, everybody and all bodies are welcome and unplug for a full day of healing at the premiere and upscale #trannabis event. ?We're excited to present our first transgender, non-binary, and genderqueer inclusive event aiming to heal those within the LGBTQAI+ community, as well as their allies in celebration for World Pride. A wide array of health and wellness activities will be available from massages and tastings to tarot and crafts. There will be various forms of entertainment and space for conversation.?

Additionally, sponsored silent auctions and raffles will benefit different LGBTQAI+ organizations and projects, including Lady Buds and Rainbow Railroad. The mission of Trannabis is to hold a safe space for everyone to be themselves, feel special, and leave more healed than when they arrived. Packages for the event start at $50 for a whole day event day with bundles for raffles beginning at $10.

?I'm a born and raised New Yorker. I came out of the first of many closets, as a teenager. I was probably 15 or 16 when I participated in my first Pride celebration. I remember feeling pure euphoria. I had never been surrounded by so many who I felt shared in many of my own experiences. This largely changed when I came out as a transgender man, around four years ago. Suddenly, I felt like I didn't belong at Pride. As time has passed, there is a trans march in NY, but it wasn't until I moved to LA and experienced an entire Trans Pride when I realized how isolated I truly felt. I learned about World Pride last year and I decided at that moment I was determined to fly home for it, but it wasn't until I walked into the venue when I was inspired to curate a full day of healing for everybody and all bodies,? said Wollberg.

Wollberg and his team wanted to build a safe space for those who feel less than celebrated to come together and enjoy being themselves, but with a wellness focus. CBD holds an important role in wellness and the LGBTQAI+ community deserves to have all the tools necessary to heal, without judgment. ?This is an event rooted in love,? he adds.
